Vital connection for aviation workers with new aviation Jobs Site

The Regional Aviation Association of Australia (RAAA), representing over 100 aviation organisations is proud to announce a dedicated aviation jobs site on its web site at www.raaa.com.au/jobs. Representing major regional airlines such as REX, Alliance Airlines, Air North, Skippers Marooomba, Cobham, Sharp and Chartair to name a few, as well as a number of flying schools and charter companies, the RAAA jobs site will be the premiere go-to site for aviation workers.

RAAA CEO Mr Steven Campbell stated it was a desperately needed place for many aviation workers who are out there looking for work and don't have that go-to place to look for aviation specific jobs.

"Those of us old enough remember when the Friday Australian newspaper was the place to look but now there is a gap to fill, so we are making it easier for aviation workers seeking new opportunities." Mr Campbell said.

"We are also not stopping at pilot jobs, we already have a vast range of aviation roles, including engineers, office and operational staff."

"This is well overdue for our organisation, this site will assist our members getting their jobs out there and at the same time, provide a one-stop-shop for aviation workers."

"As well as regional airlines, we also represent a broad range of organisations in the aviation field, such as flight training, fuel companies, airports and even insurance companies."

"If you want to know what jobs are available in the aviation industry, this site will be the place to look. Our members are committed to use this site when they have jobs to fill."

"We already have a number of jobs on the site with varying roles and we expect this number to increase as our members become more familiar with it."

"The system is easy to use and all aviation organisations, members or not, are able to submit jobs on the site, there is a vetting process of course, but we welcome all aviation jobs."

"You can also subscribe to get notified when new jobs come online, making it even easier for you."

"We want to ensure that roles are filled as soon as possible and get planes in the air and people back to work." Mr Campbell said.
